The Registries HONORING THE SUPPORTERS

The Registry of the Army Community

Civilian support, both abroad and on the homefront, has encouraged, inspired, and enabled Soldiers to serve their country to the fullest. Whether an Army spouse, Department of the Army civilian, Army contractor, Red Cross field representative, or USO employee, these supporters deserve to be recognized for their service to the Army and its Soldiers.

Help the National Museum of the U.S. Army recognize these civilian supporters by entering their names in the Registry of the Army Community.

The Registry of Animals in Service to the Army

Animals have a long and storied history in the Army. Bomb-detection, communications, and transportation are just some of the missions they've been assigned over the years. Any animal that has been used in official service to the U.S. Army is eligible to be added to the Registry.

Help the National Museum of the U.S. Army recognize these service animals by entering their names in the Registry of Animals in Service to the Army.
